There will be NO Pizza Friday this week

Direct From the Director...

Thank you!!! My staff would like to thank you and PTC for the phenomenal cookie plates. Never in my life have I seen such an outpouring of love and generosity! Our families are the absolute best!

1st graders History Museum... We had the privilege of visiting our 1st grade classes this week during their culminating project for their history unit. Each and every first grader did a report on something that has changed over time. Then they created a museum in which they became the experts and gave personal presentations to all those who visited. They were articulate and knowledgeable. Way to go first graders!

Sharing our good fortunes...LBCS students have given a bit of themselves this season to help out those less fortunate. Local service projects included: several classes adopted families, one class made blankets, another class had a coat drive, and another class sold cookies in a jar to raise money to buy gifts. One class sent school supplies to those less fortunate in Africa. Thank you to all who supported our children's' efforts.

Joy...Elise, one of our kindergartners wrote me a letter this week that said, "We should add in Joy to the I.B. attitudes." I thought about her letter all night and I just couldn't agree more. Joy would be an insightful addition to our profiles. I am not sure I.B. would add it, just like that! So...I have decided Joy will be our LBCS attitude for the next two weeks. Let's challenge ourselves to find exultant happiness in all that happens around us. Let's rejoice with our families and friends. Let's enjoy the simple pleasures in our lives.

"When you wish someone joy, you wish them peace, love, prosperity, happiness...all the good things." Maya Angelou

A joyful vacation to all....Cindy
